QUARTERLY

Dear Alumni:

Gardner-Webb College began the year 1963-64 with an enrollment of 686 students in the regular college program, 52 students in the evening college, and 35 students in the graduate program conducted by Appalachian State Teachers College each Saturday. There are 5 special students participating in the studies at the college, and 14 music specials. This is a total of 792 students being served by Gardner-Webb College. There are 59 members of the faculty, staff, and administration.

The above enrollment represents 57 counties in North Carolina and 13 states. We do not have a representative from a foreign country at this time. However, we do expect a Cuban refugee to enroll for the second semester. We have one application from a student from Japan.

During the past year the college lost one of her dearest friends and benefactors in the death of Mr. J. R. Dover Jr., '11, of Shelby. However, his Christian influence will live on in the lives of others who knew of his dedication to his Lord, his church, and Gardner-Webb College. Mr. Dover was serving as a trustee at the time of his death.

Dr. Poston

Some of the outstanding accomplishments during the school year 1962-63 need to be listed. First, the enrollment passed the 1,000 mark, including the summer school. Second, an evening college was started with an enrollment of 64, most of these being adults. Third, a joint working relationship with the Rutherford Hospital School of Nursing and Appalachian State Teachers College was started. Gardner-Webb College is providing the academic work for the first year nurses. We enlisted the help of Appalachian State Teachers College in providing graduate courses for the school teachers of our area. These two programs are continuing during the 1963-64 school year. Fourth, a new dormitory to house 100 young men has been built and filled to capacity. Fifth, a genuine emphasis on Christian living has been made throughout the college life.

Vision for the Future:

It is not an easy thing to assume the role of a prophet. However, I feel that I must project a vision for the future. We have launched on a program that will lead us to enroll 1,000 students by 1971. We are well ahead of schedule.

I believe we shall accomplish the following things by the end of 1971:

1. Enroll a student body of 1,000 students.
2. Build a faculty of 75 members
3. Reach an endowment of $3,000,000
4. Build the following buildings:
 - (a) Cafeteria—Recreation
 - (b) Fine Arts—Chapel
 - (c) Two classroom buildings
 - (d) Four dormitories
 - (e) Athletic Stadium
5. Reach the rank of senior college

Our area deserves a top-rate senior college. Gardner-Webb has the Christian and academic foundations that will support such a college. The people of our area have the money and the courage to support such a program. You and I occupy a place that angels desire to fill. We must move forward in sending out well-trained Christian men and women who will spread the Gospel of Christ to all the world.

Sincerely,

This year's theme was "His Way—
Mine," with sermons by various ministerial

Successful Founders Day—Homecoming Observed

By Mrs. Lucile J. Dixon

The 1963 Founders Day and Homecoming celebrations were held on Oct. 26, with a preliminary session for the students at chapel on Friday, the 25th. Felix E. Hamrick, '34, grandson of two men who did much for the B.S.H.S. and College, told the students some amusing and historical incidents concerning his two grandfathers whose portraits hang in the auditorium of the E. B. Hamrick Building, named for one of the grandfathers. The other grandfather was John F. Moore.

On Saturday morning at 11 o'clock the annual meeting of alumni officers, directors, chapter presidents or representatives, and college Alumni Committee was held in the Conference Room of the Webb Administration Building. This year the meeting was especially interesting in that the group sat around the three beautiful new conference tables purchased by the Alumni Association. The new position of the Memorial Arch enabled those present to enjoy seeing it while they met to discuss alumni business.

The Homecoming Luncheon, presided over by Chairman Lansford Jolley, '47, was a highlight of the day. A mixed quartet sang two numbers, and Dr. Eugene Poston, '43, President, welcomed and recognized guests and special groups. Eight of the ten honored classes—1941-1950—were represented, with 1947 and 1948 tying for top honors with five present from each. Carl Cox, '50, from Bradenton, Fla., came the longest distance, 690 miles.

John E. Roberts, '49, President of the Alumni Association, gave a report of the morning meeting and stated that we must realize afresh that Gardner-Webb College is an association of people. He mentioned the growing interest of some alumni in memorializing those teachers and/or students who have meant something special to them. He urged that alumni let him hear from them as to what they would like to do. A suggested list of possibilities (buildings, rooms, etc.) will be announced later.

Thomas Harris of the English Department presented an interesting sketch of the events preceding the establishment of Boiling Springs High School. The members of this first study committee were honored at the luncheon, one descendent of each being invited as a special guest. The original committee was composed of Chairman A. C. Irvin, the Rev. J. V. Devenny, J. E. McBrayer, D. F. Putnam, and A. H. Sims.

The speaker for the luncheon was the new pastor of the First Baptist Church of Gastonia, the Rev. Douglas Aldrich, and his subject was "That They Might Know." "Education by itself," he stated, "has the capacity to hasten the timetable of catastrophe." "The heart of the mission of Jesus is 'that they might know,'" he continued. "This is one of the obsessions of our generation, so that it is a motto of our age, the theme of our idolatry of a 'god' called 'Machine'." "Secular education strives to know—to do—to get," Mr. Aldrich said, "but Christian education seeks 'to be—to obey—to serve—to dedicate'." He then listed contrasts between secular and Christian education, showing that the ultimate aim of Christian education is to bring man into a right relation to God, to develop a superior quality of life in man, to teach men to live together as children of the family of God, and to place the character of the teacher first.

Following the luncheon, open house was held in all buildings on the campus. "Ole grads" were genuinely surprised at the living quarters in the dormitories and at the unsurpassed arrangements in the new Science Building. "It wasn't like this when we were here," they kept repeating. "Do you remember. . .?" someone asked every little while, and someone always did!

The Homecoming Barbecue was held in the Physical Education Building from 5:00-6:30 p.m. Those attending were delighted at the comfortable arrangements with tables and chairs for the meal and a program for entertainment. Jerry Hill of

Our Alumni President Speaks

Dear Alumni:

"Now you have acquired an additional parent," the commencement speaker told a college graduating class.

His reference to the Alma Mater may not seem a true analogy to some, but in a very real sense it represents the feeling of us toward Gardner-Webb.

We love our college, we treasure fond memories of our student days and we long for a way to express our gratitude for professors who became our friends as they gave freely of themselves in shaping our lives. Each of us could point to many and to one in particular. It is about such a professor that I write.

James Y. Hamrick was one of the most able, versatile and dedicated men ever to serve at Gardner-Webb. From 1945 until his untimely death in 1957 he endeared himself to thousands of students as English teacher, band director, dean of men, dramatics coach—and always as genuine and sincere friend.

Many alumni have talked for years about a fitting memorial to "Mr. J. Y." Now let's do something about it. We can name a building, equip a laboratory or classroom, furnish a student lounge, complete the athletic field or establish a band room. Any of these would be a fitting memorial to one so talented in so many fields.

Everyone has the privilege of sharing in this undertaking, but it is intended especially for those who were students and faculty members during Mr. Hamrick's 12 years on the faculty, those who are his relatives and those who were students with him in 1937-39.

Make your checks payable to the J. Y. Hamrick Memorial Fund and mail them today to the Alma Mater. Mine is in the mail.

Sincerely yours,

John Roberts

the Fine Arts Department and his newly-organized "Pep Band" played for the group while they ate. Mrs. B. M. Jarrett (Mary Sue Pruette, '23) played her accordion and sang several numbers. O. P. Hamrick, '11, President of the Bulldog Club, reported on its activities. Cheerleaders and the GW Bulldogs ran through the gymnasium for the audience to have a quick glimpse of the team before they left for the stadium in Shelby.

The Homecoming Football Game between Gardner-Webb and Chowan was a thriller even though Chowan was the winner. Beautiful Gloria Johnson was crowned Homecoming Queen at half-time activities.

If you were not here for the day and its activities, we are sorry; and we hope you will be here for the 1964 version!

FROM MY SIDE

By R. W. Abrams

Carl Sandburg has a line somewhere which says, "There is within me an eagle and a mocking bird." The poet seems to be emphasizing that the eagle is capable of soaring to great heights and of surveying its surroundings from a view not attained by other birds. From its lofty vista things must look different from those viewed close up. The mocking bird, on the other hand, does not soar; it only repeats what it has heard from other birds. It has a sameness and a sense of repetition about its songs. There is no mark of distinction.

Sandburg also seems to be saying the comparison applies to mankind. Some individuals are capable of soaring thought and action while others are like the mocking bird, just imitators. Some have the high view and the long view of life while others see life from the short range. Some are challenged and inspired at the possibilities life and the world hold. Others are doubtful and subdued, questioning whether there is anything new under the sun and wonder if any progress or forward movement is possible. They lack vision and see society perishing.

If this truth applies to individuals it applies to institutions also. There are some which seek to maintain the status quo and live by the accomplishments of the past. Others are looking to the future with a tie with the past. They conceive of the past as a foundation upon which to build the future. Some seem to continue by the pattern of copying and imitation. Others follow the course of creative continuity and planning.

This idea is not to disparage history and the accomplishments and progress of the past. It is not to say that we should be like the mocking bird and never copy nor imitate anything. Indeed, it is to follow the Biblical admonition, "Abhor that which is evil, cleave to that which is good." This is the point at which institutions have established themselves and their programs as unique and different. By emphasis upon certain areas and repetition of them they have built their reputations. Here is the point at which they are individualistic and unusual. Here is where they take on personality qualities and images in areas of service.

Gardner-Webb has her own peculiar and special place in the higher educational field. She stands out in her demands for high moral and academic standards as she seeks to prepare students for transferring to four year and graduate institutions and in preparation for life's work. Her alumni are loyal and committed to her high ideals and standards. Each is making his mark and filling his own unique place in society, which is as it should be.

In planning and development in the future both the college and her alumni must be aware and learn from the fact that "there is within me an eagle and a mocking bird."

Mr. Abrams

Sincerely yours,

R. W. Abrams

COLLEGE ADDRESSES RESOLUTION TO ALUMNI

The following resolution was read at the annual meeting of the Alumni Association Officers and Directors on October 26.

Whereas, the Alumni Association of Gardner-Webb College in its annual meeting, May 25, 1963, authorized the expenditure of funds to relocate the Huggins Memorial Arch and to purchase tables for the Conference Room, and

Whereas, each day members of the college family stroll through the archway and are reminded of the dedication and other qualities of greatness which made Professor Huggins such an effective leader of our college and are inspired to continue to be a part of this rich tradition, and

Whereas, the Conference Room is used often by many groups and the tables serve as tangible evidence of the continued interest of the alumni, and

Whereas, the assurance of this concern spurs us to even greater things for our college.

Therefore BE IT RESOLVED: that we, the trustees, administration, faculty, staff and students of Gardner-Webb College

- (1) Expresses our appreciation and gratitude to the Alumni Association for these contributions.
- (2) Pledge anew our best efforts to the further development of Gardner-Webb College so that all alumni will continue to be proud of their Alma Mater.

PROGRAM IN THE ARTS LAUNCHED

The Program in the Arts embodies Gardner-Webb's cultural and creative emphasis, an emphasis designed to complement and supplement the college's academic program, producing ideally the student at ease in situations involving gracious living and appreciative of the values in the fine arts, as well as the student sound in scholarship. Prof. F. B. Dedmond directs the program.

Mrs. Nettie Rayle Gidney, coloratura soprano, and perennially a favorite with college audiences, inaugurated the 1963-64 cultural series with a program of operatic arias and popular lyrics. On Sept. 30, the superb musician--showman, Stephen Kovacs, delighted audiences morning and evening with programs requiring the utmost in technical skill and a prodigious musical memory.

Several distinguished speakers have been brought to the campus. On Oct. 14, the Rev. Garland Hendricks, professor at Southeastern Seminary, lectured on "What of the Future?" on Nov. 4, Mr. Stanley Green, '24, gave the first of his two lectures on "The Outer Banks Early in World War II." the Council on Christian Education of the N. C. Baptist State Convention on Nov. 20. Mr. Fisher also was the speaker at a Program in the Arts dinner for the faculty on Nov. 19.

The first of three World Around Us color movies—entitled "There Will Always Be An England"—and narrated personally by Dr. Charles Taylor—was attended by an overflow crowd on Nov. 21.

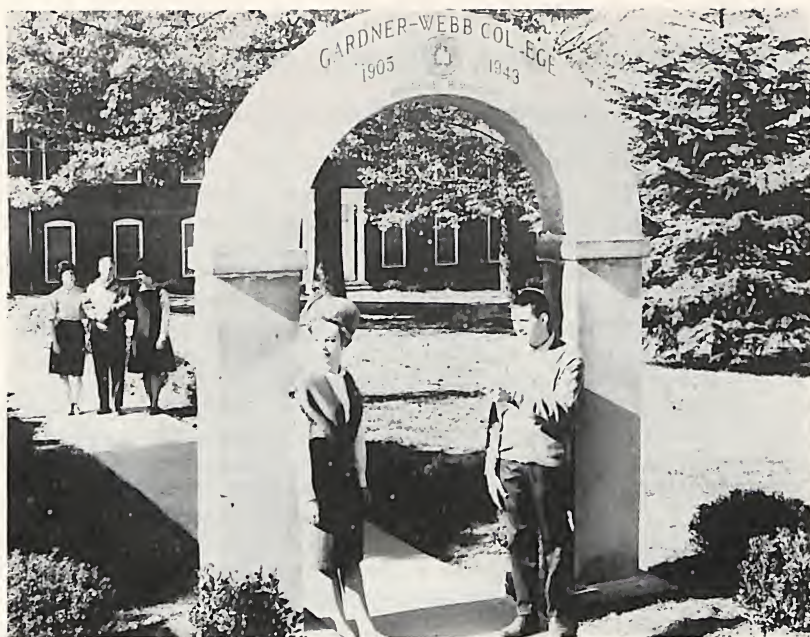

The first of the "dressed-up" dinners programs scheduled for Nov. 25 was cancelled due to President John F. Kennedy's death. The Christmas banquet on Dec. 18, a "dressed-up" dinners program, was a beautiful, impressive occasion under the auspices of the B.S.U.

Gardner-Webb's debating teams have participated in three inter-collegiate debate tournaments. At least three more tournaments are planned for next semester.

On Dec. 5-6, the GW Playcrafters gave two well attended and impressive performances of Arthur Miller's American tragedy, "All My Sons."

Football Bulldogs Close Season

The Bulldogs of Gardner-Webb closed their most disappointing football season in recent years on Sat., Nov. 16, by losing to Gordon Military College of Barnesville, Ga., 27-9.

G-W's season record was three wins and six losses. The Bulldogs' biggest win of the season was a 21-12 victory over the Bobcats of Lees-McRae. This victory enabled the Bulldogs to win the Western Carolinas Junior College Athletic Conference Football Championship. Lees-McRae and G-W are the only two teams in the WCJCAC who participate in football, so the outcome of the two Gardner-Webb-Lees-McRae games decides the WCJCAC championship. This season Lees-McRae won the first game between the old rivals 6-0, and G-W won the second game 21-12. On the basis of total points scored G-W won the championship.

Several G-W football players received post-season recognition. Jackie Furr of Cheraw, S. C., is a nominee for Junior College-All-American honors and James Harmon, Tommy Morrow, and Furr were all selected to the All-Region X Junior College football team.

Bulldogs Need Financial Help!

As can be easily seen by examining Gardner-Webb's dismal 1963 football record, the Bulldogs are in need of help! It is felt by those closest to the situation that G-W can no longer compete on an equal footing with teams from similar institutions unless a more up-to-date athletic financial assistance program is instituted by the college.

Presently each boy who letters in a major sport at G-W is given a cash award of $50. This award is made possible through donations given by the Bulldog Club members. Athletic Director Norman Harris would like to increase this cash award to $100.

At this time the college administration is working with Coach Harris in an attempt to formulate some type of workable program, possibly a "matching" arrangement whereby the college would match in cash the amount raised by the Bulldog Club.

So far this year the Bulldog Club has raised approximately $1,600. It is felt that a total of $5,000 is needed in order that G-W may continue to field the fine teams that it has in the past. Will you help?

Suggestions are welcome!

Basketball Season Gets Underway

The 1963-64 basketball squad is of unknown quality at this time. The Bulldogs, last year's tournament winner, lost six of last season's top seven men by the graduation route. Four other squad members of the first Gardner-Webb championship basketball team have also dropped by the wayside for various reasons. G-W can boast only two returnees. These are David Webster of Mebane and Roger Dixon of

TRUSTEES AND ADVISORS MEET JOINTLY

The November meeting of the Trustees was an organizational meeting, held jointly with the Board of Advisors. The groups heard the annual report of President E. Eugene Poston, '43, who emphasized the growth of the college and the progress evident in the present term. He also projected plans for the college's future development.

Officers elected to lead the board in the coming year were J. Toliver Davis, Forest City, Chairman; Clifford E. Hamrick, '22, Boiling Springs, Vice Chairman; J. C. Hames, Cliffside, Secretary; and Mrs. O. Max Gardner, Shelby, Treasurer.

Committee chairman selected were Lloyd C. Bost, Shelby, Finance; Claude Hinson, Belmont, and Max Craig, Stanley, Co-Chairmen, Curriculum; Arnold W. Kincaid, '26, Kings Mountain, Public Relations; and J. L. Suttle, Jr., Shelby, Tone and Character.

New members of the board named at the recent meeting of the Baptist State Convention of N. C. were recognized. They are Max Craig, Stanley businessman; Charles I. Dover, Shelby industrialist; T. Ray Helms, contractor of Mount Holly and Charlotte; Leonard Lowe, Forest City attorney; Rev. Herbert Miller, pastor of Boger City Baptist Church; T. R. Hendrix, businessman of High Point; Rev. M. O. Owens, Jr., pastor of East Baptist Church of Gastonia; and Mrs. Rush Stroup, Shelby civic leader.

Following the afternoon session, both groups along with their wives and husbands were guests at the President's Dinner. Later they attended the color film and lecture entitled, "There'll Always Be An England".

During the afternoon, wives of trustees and board members were entertained at a tea given by Mrs. Eugene Poston, '43, at the President's home. Assisting were members of the faculty and wives of members of the faculty and administration.

"All My Sons" Presented At Gardner-Webb

The GW Playcrafters presented Arthur Miller's play, "All My Sons" Dec. 5 and 6 in the E. B. Hamrick Auditorium. Thomas M. Harris, instructor in English and drama at the college, directed the play and had the lead role.

Other cast members were Mary Cook, Forest City; Bill Matthews, Marion; Carol McAbee, Flint, Mich.; Cecil Emmett, Bessemer City; Harold Bishop, Rutherfordton; Sue Humphries, Cliffside; Tony Darnell, Lincolnton; Carolyn Pruitt, Fayetteville, and Arthur Moseley of Boiling Springs, nine-year-old son of chemistry Professor and Mrs. M. A. Moseley, Jr.

Debbie Wacker of Lima, Peru, was assistant director with Gay Jolley of Kings Mountain serving as stage manager.

The play, which received the New York Drama Critics Award for the best new American play of 1947, is concerned with the fortunes of the Keller and Deever families during World War II. Joe Keller and Herbert Deever were partners in a machine shop, which built defective airplane parts. Deever went to prison while Keller went free and made a fortune from war contracts.

Catastrophe overshadows both families when Keller's son is reported missing in action and Chris Keller and Ann Deever declare their love for each other.

The national collegiate debate query was used: "Resolved, that the federal government should guarantee higher education to all qualified high school graduates."

On Nov. 7, 8, and 9, the Gardner-Webb debaters participated in the varsity division of the Carolina Forensics at the University of South Carolina, Columbia. According to Mr. Dedmond, the Gardner-Webb team did not come away from the tournament with a great number of victories. The team, however, did get a lot of valuable experience from meeting such teams as the Univ. of Georgia, the U. S. Military Academy, the Univ. of Kentucky, Emory Univ., Dartmouth College, Old Dominion College, and Georgia Tech. The Gardner-Webb negative team defeated Georgia Tech.

In the Mountain Forensic Tournament at Boone, November 14, 15, and 16, the Gardner-Webb affirmative team defeated teams from Tennessee Wesleyan and Belmont Abbey. The negative team defeated teams from East Tennessee State University and Davidson College.

Gifts are divided on a 60-40 basis—60% is divided equally among all members, and 40% is given on a pro-rata basis of $10.59 per student.

Funds are used primarily to increase faculty salaries, which last year averaged $5,500 in the member colleges.

continuous interest in the school.

Mr. Dover is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elaine Hamrick Dover, a son, J. R. Dover, III, '47, a daughter, Mrs. J. G. Vincent, five grandchildren, two brothers and six sisters.

Mr. Dover was a dedicated Christian gentleman. Deacon and leader in his church, he established a shining example that others could, and did, follow. His contributions to the college not only included money, but his leadership. "Gardner-Webb has lost a great friend," says Dr. Poston, President. And truly he was a friend to GW.

BASKETBALL SEASON

Clover, S. C. Both boys saw a lot of action last season, so they should lend a steadying influence to the otherwise inexperienced Bulldogs.

1963-64 can aptly be described as a rebuilding year at G-W. Coach Norman Harris, in his fifteenth year at G-W, is optimistic, however. Harris has several outstanding candidates plus James Fisher, a transfer student, around which to mold his team.

As in the past, the Bulldogs will compete in the always tough Western Carolinas Junior College Athletic Conference. The WCJCAC is made up of eight junior colleges in both Carolinas. All eight members field basketball squads.

NOTICE

Your attention is called to the Old Timers game scheduled for Jan. 18. All former athletes are encouraged to return for that occasion. This will be the second annual game between the Old Timers and the current basketball squad.

FROM OUR DEVELOPMENT DIRECTOR

Mr. McGraw

Dear Friends:

Have you given much thought lately as to how you might be able to assist your Alma Mater as she continues to grow and develop? When have you been on the campus for a "look see"?

The men's new dormitory is now completed and it is a very impressive thing to behold as it occupies its position on the side of the hill. Come and look it over.

As you know, there are three buildings on our campus that are as yet unnamed. Maybe you could help us to name them or put us in contact with someone who might be interested. The following schedule has been adopted by the Board of Trustees.

To name	—	Gymnasium	$75,000
		Science Building	75,000
		New Dormitory	50,000
		Athletic Field	25,000
		Chemistry Laboratory	15,000
		Biology Laboratory	10,000
		Classroom	3,000
		Furnishing Dormitory Room	1,000

A suitable memorial plaque (bronze) will be erected and displayed appropriately.

We still have a great need for endowment which must be increased, and for scholarships which are so vital in the securing of new students. The Book of Memory is a good way to increase our endowment.

We who are alumni have a great responsibility to those who come after us. The Alumni Endowment Fund should continue to grow. Send your donation in now.

You may be assured that the college desires "serving all who want her service and blessing all with outstretched hands."

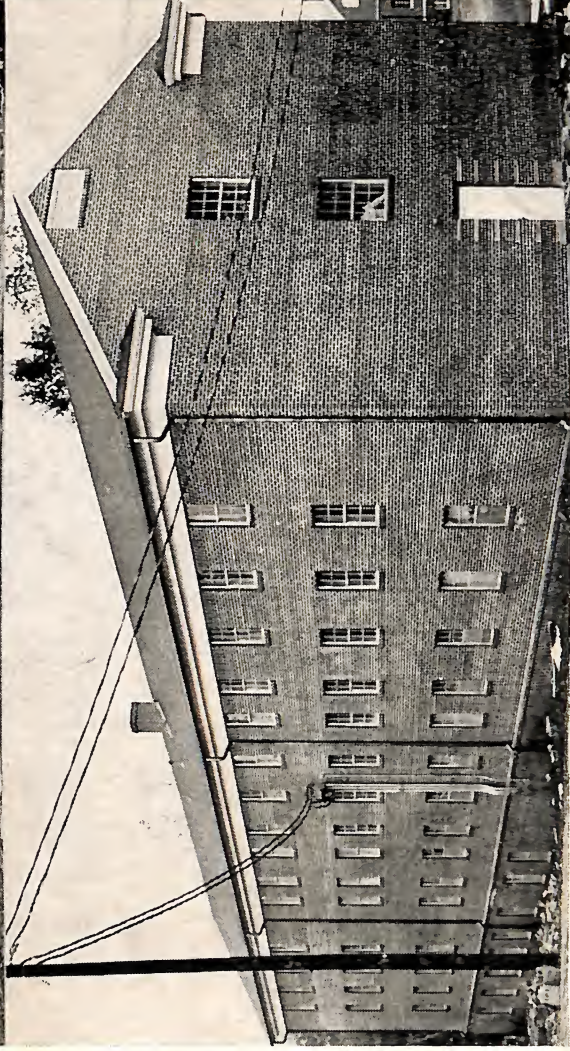

Sincerely yours,
